

Annual Leave

1. How is annual leave entitlement calculated (based on years of service, etc.)

The Employee is entitled to 14 days of paid annual leave per year, increasing with each year of continuous service as per the Employment Act.

Year of Service	Days of leave
1 st	14
2 nd	15
3 rd	16
4 th	17
5 th and thereafter	18

2. Is there a carry-over policy for unused leave? If so, what are the limits?

No, unused annual leave cannot be carried over to the next year.

3. What's the process for applying for leave?

Typically, employees submit leave requests through an email to their manager.

Annual leave (Part-time & New Employees)

4. How is annual leave calculated if works as a part-time?

The annual leave is calculated on a pro-rata basis, meaning it is proportional to the number of hours you work compared to a full-time employee.

5. What does "pro-rata" mean in terms of annual leave?

It means your leave entitlement is adjusted based on your working hours. If you work half the hours of a full-time employee, you will get roughly half the annual leave.

6. How is the annual leave calculated if I haven't worked a full year?

The annual leave is calculated on a pro-rata basis, based on the number of complete months you've worked.

7. If I start mid-year, do I still get my full annual leave entitlement?

No, you will receive a portion of your annual leave entitlement, calculated based on the number of months you have worked in that year.

Below is the formula how to calculate the pro-related annual leave is calculated:

$$(\text{Number of completed month of service} / 12 \text{ months}) * \text{Number of days of annual leave entitlement}$$

Note:

- If the fraction of a day is less than one-half, round it down.
- If it is half or more, round it up to one day.

Medical Leave (Sick Leave)

8. What are the eligibility requirements for paid medical leave?

Employees must have served at least 3 months with the company to be eligible for paid sick leave under the Employment Act.

9. How many days are entitled, and is there a differentiation between outpatient and hospitalization leave?

Employees are entitled to paid outpatient medical leave of up to 14 days a year and paid hospitalization leave of up to 60 days a year, inclusive of the 14 days outpatient sick leave.

10. What documentation is required for medical leave (e.g., medical certificate)?

A medical certificate from a registered medical practitioner is required for paid sick leave.

Maternity/Paternity Leave

11. What are the eligibility requirements for maternity/paternity leave?

Maternity leave has specific eligibility criteria, including the child being a Singapore citizen and the mother having worked for at least 3 months before the child's birth.

Paternity leave also has eligibility criteria, including being the child's legal father and the child being a Singapore citizen.

12. How many days are entitled, and what are the payment terms (government-paid, company-paid)?

Maternity Leave: Eligible working mothers are entitled to 16 weeks of Government-Paid Maternity Leave (GPML)

Paternity Leave: Eligible working fathers are entitled to 2 weeks of Government-Paid Paternity Leave (GPPL)

13. What is the process for applying for these leaves?

By giving the employer at least 1 weeks' notice before going on maternity leave and informed them as soon as possible. Otherwise, you are only entitled to half the payment during maternity leave, unless you have a good enough reason for not giving the notice.

Working hours

14. What are the standard working hours?

The standard working hours are 44 hours per week, from 9:00 AM to 6:00 PM, Monday to Friday.

15. How many days a week are considered standard working days?

Five days a week, Monday through Friday.

16. What time does the workday start and end?

The workday starts at 9:00 AM and ends at 6:00 PM.

Overtime

17. How is overtime calculated?

Overtime is compensated at 1.5 times the employee's hourly basic rate of pay.

18. When does overtime pay begin?

Overtime pay begins for any hours worked beyond the standard 44 hours per week.

19. Is there a limit to the amount of overtime an employee can work?

Yes, overtime is capped at 72 hours per month, unless otherwise specified.

20. What does "unless otherwise specified" mean regarding the overtime cap?

It means that in certain situations or roles, the company may allow overtime beyond the 72-hour monthly cap, but this would be communicated separately.

21. How is the hourly basic rate of pay calculated?

That would be determined by the salary and the number of standard working hours.

Rest Days

22. How many rest days are employees entitled to per week?

Employees are entitled to 2 rest days per week.

23. Are the rest days automatically Saturday and Sunday?

While not explicitly stated, it is implied that the rest days are Saturday and Sunday, given the work week stated is Monday to Friday. However, the policy does not explicitly say that they must be those days.

24. Can rest days be taken on weekdays?

The policy does not specify, but given the 5-day work week is Monday to Friday, it is implied that rest days are the weekend.

25. If I work on a rest day, will I be compensated?

The policy does not explicitly address compensation for working on a rest day, but it is implied that it would be considered overtime.

Public Holidays

26. Which public holidays are observed by the organization?

The Employee is entitled to all gazette public holidays. If the Employee works on a public holiday, they will be compensated with an additional day's pay, or a substitute pay off.

27. What happens if a public holiday falls on a non-working day?

If a public holiday falls on a non-working day, you are entitled to another day off or one extra day's salary in lieu of the public holiday at the gross rate of pay.
